

This month in New Visions: February

WINTER

What's happening

Our school is currently having work done to its exterior in a few different spots. This work will not disrupt our students learning.

Please be sure to check the news for latest information regarding the latest information regarding school closures due to inclement weather and ETFO teacher strike dates.

From the book nook:

We are going to start to talk about winter in class! We will be reading books like The Mitten and other winter, snow, and even a few Valentine's Day books!!

Sensory table switch!

This month, the sensory table will be filled with snowflakes, shredded tissues paper and winter animals! This will allow students to explore the visuals of winter and various textures that come with it!
