

October 12th,
2018

MPSS News

By Andrea Reid

Do You Like Writing? Do You Like Halloween? Why Not Do Them Both!

Prizes to be won for 1st place, 2nd place, and 3rd place.

This Halloween, why not use your writing skills for the Halloween Student Writing Contest? All that you have to do is write a short story that is spooky, scary, or gory and all in 500 words or less. The story must be typed and printed and then submitted to the library by Friday, October 26th. The stories will be available for the students of MPSS to read and then return with their votes for the best stories. Voting will take place on October 29th, 30th, and 31st. The students will decide which stories best represent the horror genre.

Fun Fact: Celts believed the ghosts of the dead roamed Earth on this holiday, so people would dress in costumes and leave "treats" out on their front doors to appease the roaming spirits.